

AUREO TERMS OF SERVICE AND DIGITAL SERVICE AGREEMENT

Effective date: May 10, 2026

Last updated: May 10, 2026

Document version: 2026-05-10

Publisher details:

Publisher/Service Provider: Baran KUTLUAY

Address: Cumhuriyet Mahallesi, Silivri/Istanbul

Country: Türkiye

Email: privacy@getaureo.app

These Terms of Service and Digital Service Agreement ("Agreement") govern the download, installation, access and use of the Aureo mobile application, including market data views, watchlists, favorites, home-screen widgets, advertising preferences, performance, security and related digital features. Please read this Agreement and the Privacy Policy/KVKK Disclosure Notice carefully before using the application.

1. Parties

This Agreement is concluded electronically between the Publisher/Service Provider identified above and the natural person using Aureo ("User").

The User confirms that they use the application on their own behalf or, if acting for another person, organization or business, that they have the necessary authority. Where the User is a consumer, mandatory consumer protection rights remain reserved.

2. Definitions

Application or Aureo means the mobile software that provides data monitoring, listing, favorites, home-screen widget display, price or snapshot updates, ads and informational features for currencies, gold, precious metals, stocks, indices, funds, commodities, crypto assets and similar market categories.

Market Data means prices, rates, changes, charts, sessions, timestamps, symbols, asset names, categories, historical performance, rankings and similar information that may be obtained from third-party data providers, exchanges, public sources, financial data feeds, backend services or sources compiled inside the application.

Watchlists and Favorites mean asset lists, list memberships, ordering preferences, favorite marks and widget configurations created by the User on the local device or within an anonymous technical session.

Advertising Services mean personalized, non-personalized or limited ads that may be displayed through Google AdMob or similar advertising providers.

3. Acceptance of this Agreement

The User electronically accepts this Agreement by marking the acceptance checkbox after being given access to the Terms of Service and Privacy Policy links in the onboarding flow. Continuing to use the application may also constitute acceptance to the extent that the current documents have been reasonably presented to the User.

The international transfer notice is part of the privacy and data protection disclosures; it must not be interpreted as a general, unlimited explicit consent text. Advertising personalization, App Tracking Transparency, Google UMP or similar preference screens produce legal effect only for the relevant advertising, tracking or data processing purpose.

If you do not accept this Agreement, you must not use Aureo, must remove it from your device and may contact the Publisher for any applicable data deletion or support request.

4. Nature of the service

Aureo is a financial data tracking application that provides general information and personal monitoring convenience. The application may display asset prices, change rates, watchlists, favorites, market snapshots, home-screen widget content and explanatory interface elements.

Aureo is not a bank, brokerage firm, portfolio management company, investment adviser, crypto asset service provider, payment institution, electronic money institution, exchange, clearing house or custody provider. You cannot deposit money, withdraw money, send orders, transmit orders, buy or sell assets, hold crypto assets, manage portfolios or open investment accounts through the application.

The application may be provided on a free, ad-supported, subscription-based or tiered feature model. If a paid feature is introduced, payment, cancellation and refund processes will be explained separately under the relevant app store rules and applicable consumer law.

5. No investment advice

Prices, charts, change rates, notifications, rankings, lists, visual indicators, text explanations and all other content shown in Aureo are provided for general informational purposes only. They do not constitute investment advisory services, individual portfolio management, brokerage activity, order transmission, investment recommendations, crypto asset trading advice, tax advice, legal advice or personalized financial recommendations.

Under capital markets rules, investment advisory and portfolio management services are provided by authorized institutions after assessing the customer's financial position, investment objectives, risk and return preferences, knowledge and experience. Aureo does not collect or evaluate your income, indebtedness, portfolio size, risk profile, investment objective or suitability/appropriateness information.

The User acknowledges that no data point, color indicator, percentage change, search result, ranking or explanation displayed in the application is a personalized buy, sell or hold recommendation. Before making any financial decision, the User is responsible for verifying information from independent sources, obtaining professional support from authorized investment institutions and considering their own financial condition.

6. Market data and risks

Market Data may be compiled from different sources and may be delayed, incomplete, incorrect, stale, mismatched by symbol or unavailable because of technical issues. Timestamps, snapshot generation times, WebSocket connection status or stale indicators shown in the application are only technical helper signals; they do not mean that the displayed data is always a tradable price.

Currencies, precious metals, stocks, funds, commodities and crypto assets may be highly volatile. Crypto assets in particular may involve regulatory, liquidity, custody, market manipulation, technical failure, cybersecurity and counterparty risks. Past performance is not a guarantee of future results.

If there is any discrepancy between Aureo data and banks, brokers, exchanges, data providers or official sources, the User must rely on authorized and primary sources before making any financial decision. The Publisher is not responsible for loss of profit, missed opportunity, damages, interest, taxes, commissions or similar consequences arising from decisions made based on market data displayed in the application.

7. Age and legal capacity

Aureo is not designed for persons under 18 years of age. By using the application, the User represents that they are at least 18 years old or otherwise have the legal capacity required to use digital services in their jurisdiction.

The Publisher may not operate a separate age verification process. Nevertheless, the application should not be used by children or by persons who cannot reasonably assess financial risks for the purpose of making investment decisions. For users in the EU/EEA, profile-based advertising to children should not be carried out.

8. User obligations

The User agrees to use the application in compliance with law, good faith principles, this Agreement, app store rules and the legitimate use requirements of third-party service providers.

The User agrees not to:

- Reverse engineer the application or backend services, decompile source code, bypass security controls or attempt unauthorized access.
- Use bots, crawlers, scrapers, automated queries, data mining, high-volume requests or similar methods to collect market data, symbol lists, charts, user data or application content.
- Use the application as a commercial data feed, resale product, bulk data distribution service, price screen service, API substitute or financial data service for third parties.
- Engage in misleading, unlawful, manipulative, market-abusive or rights-infringing activity.
- Disable, mislead or circumvent advertising, analytics, App Check, security, rate-limiting or abuse-prevention mechanisms.
- Copy, reproduce, distribute or process any brand, logo, design, text, data compilation, icon or software element without the Publisher's permission.

If misuse is suspected, the Publisher may restrict, suspend or terminate service access based on technical signals such as device identifiers, anonymous user identifiers, IP address, request patterns or similar indicators.

9. Rate limits and security

Aureo may impose limits on request volume, refresh frequency, analysis rights, snapshot access, widget updates and similar technical functions in order to protect application performance, backend resources, data providers and the experience of other users. These limits may vary by device, session, platform, application version, region, network status or abuse indicators.

The User acknowledges that technical limits are an integral part of the service and that attempts to bypass them constitute a breach of this Agreement. The Publisher may temporarily disable all or part of the application for security, maintenance, performance, legal requirements or third-party service outages.

10. Ads, ATT and Google UMP

Aureo may display ads through Google AdMob or similar services to support a free or low-cost use model. Ads may be personalized, non-personalized or limited ads.

Android users may change their personalized advertising choice through in-app preference screens. For iOS users, tracking permission may also be requested through Apple's App Tracking Transparency system prompt. If permission is denied, ad display may not stop completely, but personalization and tracking will be limited.

For users in the European Economic Area, the United Kingdom and Switzerland, Google-certified UMP/CMP screens may be displayed for Google AdMob ads. These screens explain advertising technology providers, purposes and preference choices. The simple advertising preference checkbox in the application does not replace Google UMP/CMP or Apple ATT permission.

11. Home-screen widgets and local records

Aureo may display watchlists or selected assets as home-screen widgets on supported platforms. Widget content may be delayed or stale depending on operating system behavior, background refresh permissions, network status, battery optimization, platform restrictions and backend access.

Prices or change rates shown in widgets may not match in-app data or third-party sources at every moment. The Publisher is not responsible if widget data fails to refresh automatically, appears incomplete or is suspended by the platform.

Watchlists, favorites, preferences and some technical identifiers may be stored on the device or within an anonymous technical session. Removing the application, clearing device data, operating system updates or platform security policies may affect these records.

12. Intellectual property

Aureo's software, design, brand elements, interfaces, icons, animations, data compilations, category structure, listing logic, screen layouts, texts and original content are protected by applicable intellectual property rights. This Agreement grants the User only a personal, limited, non-transferable, non-exclusive and revocable license to use the application.

Third-party brands, symbols, company names, fund names, crypto asset names, exchange names, logos or data elements displayed in the application may belong to their respective owners. Their presence in Aureo does not imply partnership, sponsorship, agency or endorsement by any third party.

The User agrees not to copy all or a substantial part of the application content, systematically extract it to build a database, reproduce it with automated tools or reuse it for commercial purposes.

13. Feedback

The User may send suggestions, bug reports, ideas, design comments, feature requests or other feedback about the application. Unless otherwise agreed in writing, the User acknowledges that the Publisher may use, improve and incorporate such feedback into the application without payment or attribution.

When sending feedback, the User is responsible for not sharing third-party confidential information, personal data, copyrighted material or unlawful content.

14. Fees, subscriptions and app stores

Aureo may currently be provided free of charge and supported by advertising. The Publisher reserves the right to make certain features paid in the future or to offer subscriptions, analysis rights, premium data, ad-free usage or in-app purchase models.

If paid features are added, payment, cancellation, renewal and refund processes may be subject to Apple App Store, Google Play or the relevant payment provider's rules. App stores may apply independent rules regarding payment infrastructure, tax handling, refund decisions and subscription renewals.

This Agreement is concluded between the User and the Publisher, not with Apple, Google or any other app store. The User must also comply with app store terms, platform rules, device settings and payment policies.

15. Consumer rights and digital service nature

Where the User qualifies as a consumer, rights under the Turkish Consumer Protection Law No. 6502 and applicable secondary legislation remain reserved. For free features or digital services performed instantly in electronic form, statutory exceptions to withdrawal rights may apply.

If in-app purchases or subscriptions are introduced in the future, price, term, renewal, cancellation, refund, technical requirements and any withdrawal right exceptions will be explained before payment. This clause must not be interpreted to override mandatory consumer protection provisions.

16. Limitation of liability

To the maximum extent permitted by law, the Publisher is not liable for direct, indirect, incidental, special, punitive or consequential damages arising from use or inability to use the application; loss of profit, market opportunity loss, data loss, reputational damage, device malfunction, incorrect or delayed market data, advertising content, third-party service interruptions or the User's investment decisions.

Nothing in this Agreement excludes rights that cannot be limited under mandatory law, consumer protection rules, bodily injury, death, willful misconduct or gross negligence. However, the User acknowledges that Aureo is not a financial decision-making tool or trading platform.

17. Indemnity

The User agrees to hold the Publisher harmless from claims, damages, expenses, administrative sanctions, litigation costs and attorney fees arising from breach of this Agreement, unlawful use of the application, infringement of third-party rights, unauthorized data extraction, misuse of the system or unjustified claims against the Publisher.

This clause does not remove the User's mandatory consumer rights, but liability arising from malicious, fraudulent, unauthorized or Agreement-breaching use belongs to the User.

18. Changes to service and termination

The Publisher may change application features, data coverage, category structure, advertising model, widget experience, backend endpoints, security rules, rate limits and visual design. Material changes will be announced to users through reasonable methods.

The User may stop using the application by removing it from their device. The Publisher may restrict or terminate access in the event of breach of this Agreement, misuse, security risk, legal obligation or termination of the service.

Upon termination, provisions concerning intellectual property, limitation of liability, indemnity, consequences of prior data processing, governing law and disputes will remain in effect.

19. Force majeure

Natural disasters, war, terrorism, epidemic, strikes, public authority decisions, legal changes, cyberattacks, electricity or internet outages, cloud service failures, exchange or data provider outages, app store restrictions and other events beyond the Publisher's reasonable control are considered force majeure. In such cases, the Publisher is not liable for delayed, incomplete or unavailable service.

20. EU/EEA and United Kingdom users

To the extent Aureo is offered to users in the EU/EEA, the United Kingdom or Switzerland, mandatory rights under local consumer and data protection laws remain reserved. This Agreement does not remove non-waivable consumer protections in the User's country of habitual residence.

Advertising transparency, prohibition of profile-based advertising to children, personal data processing and storing or accessing information on terminal equipment may also be subject to relevant EU/local laws and platform rules.

21. Severability and no waiver

If any provision of this Agreement is found invalid, unenforceable or unlawful, the validity of the remaining provisions will not be affected. The invalid provision will be deemed replaced by a valid provision closest to the parties' economic and legal intent.

The Publisher's delay or failure to exercise any right does not constitute a waiver. Failure to act against one breach does not create a commitment to act the same way regarding future breaches.

22. Governing law and disputes

This Agreement is governed by the laws of the Republic of Turkey. Mandatory consumer provisions and statutory rights before competent consumer arbitration committees and consumer courts are reserved. If mandatory local consumer provisions apply to an EU/EEA or United Kingdom user, those provisions remain reserved.

The parties agree to communicate in good faith before escalating disputes and to first attempt to resolve technical or support matters through in-app or email channels.

23. Contact

For this Agreement, the Privacy Policy, KVKK/GDPR requests, data deletion requests or application support, you may contact the Publisher at privacy@getaureo.app.

By accepting this Agreement, the User confirms that they have read, understood and accepted in particular that Aureo does not provide investment advice, that market data may be delayed or inaccurate, that the User is responsible for all consequences of financial decisions, that the User may not copy application content beyond the personal-use license and that the service is provided as is.